

Reference Management with Citavi or Endnote

Reference management with EndNote

EndNote is a professional software for managing literature and creating academic texts. With EndNote you can search for literature references in various catalogs and (online) databases, which can then be transferred to your own literature database. The program enables integration with MS Word and Open Office and offers a variety of different citation styles to automatically insert references and bibliographies into your document. A proper full-text search and intelligent PDF management are also included.

➔ Below you will find useful information and tutorials.

Please go to E in the index <https://www.ufz.de/index.php?en=36460>

Reference management with Citavi

Citavi is software for reference management and knowledge organization. With Citavi you can research literature and collect the most important references from books, essays and internet documents.

It supports the writing of scientific papers, the bibliography is created automatically.

Citavi can manage text passages and images from documents as quotations and texts and images as your own thoughts. These quotations and thoughts can be used as text modules in the word processor, the quotations are automatically assigned correctly.

➔ Below you will find useful video tutorials and help.

Please go to C in the index <https://www.ufz.de/index.php?en=36460>